Cure Your Cabin Fever on a Motorcycle

Motorcycle Riding School Gears up for the Riding Season with Courses for Every Level

CHICAGO, Ill. - After a long winter, Chicago residents are suffering from severe cabin fever. What better way to thaw your soul than learning to ride a motorcycle? Motorcycle Riding School (MRS), Chicago's premier private motorcycle-riding instruction school, presents a fresh offering of courses for riders at all levels.

"Spring is an excellent time to take a class at MRS," says Sarah Lahilah, owner of MRS. "Rather than jump on the road unprepared and untrained, new bike owners should take time to get the instruction they need. Riding becomes much more fun when you know what you're doing and you're in control of your bike and your surroundings."

With the motorcycle ownership and motorcycle fatalities on the rise, instruction on how to properly handle a bike becomes more important. Visions of life on the open road can become reality with the basic skills taught in an MRS course.

The Basic Rider Course, a two-day course, includes four hours of classroom and 10 hours of hands-on motorcycle instruction. MRS provides the motorcycles and helmets. And riders can take the M license exam on-site at the conclusion of the course.

MRS also offers an advanced course, a motorcycle maintenance course and a sport riding course for experienced riders.
